Voxen Energy Launches International Gas and LNG Development Platform

Newly established company brings together international energy expertise and an emerging portfolio of LNG infrastructure and commercial development opportunities.

HONG KONG, 24 October 2026 — Voxen Energy Limited ("Voxen"), incorporated in Hong Kong on 6 October 2026, today announced the launch of its international gas and liquefied natural gas (LNG) development platform, established to originate, structure and advance energy infrastructure projects and commercial partnerships connecting natural gas resources with growing global energy markets.

Voxen brings together an experienced international team with expertise spanning energy infrastructure development, natural gas commercialisation, LNG markets, project finance and strategic investment.

Operating under its corporate vision, "Connecting Resources. Developing Markets.", Voxen aims to establish a diversified international portfolio of LNG infrastructure and related commercial opportunities, with a particular focus on connecting natural gas resources with growing LNG demand.

The company's initial development portfolio spans LNG export development, LNG liquefaction, shipping and logistics, and LNG import infrastructure with integrated gas supply.

Alongside its infrastructure development activities, Voxen is building commercial capabilities in structured LNG supply arrangements, international project partnerships and portfolio development.

Voxen's business model emphasises commercial origination, strategic partnerships and disciplined capital deployment, working alongside established technical, financial and industry participants to progress projects from initial development through investment readiness and eventual implementation.

> Danny Topperberg, Managing Director, Corporate Affairs at Voxen Energy, said: "The launch of Voxen Energy represents an important step in bringing together international experience, established relationships and a growing portfolio of energy development opportunities under one dedicated platform. Our ambition is to build a commercially driven LNG business that connects competitive gas resources with markets where energy demand continues to grow. We believe that our combination of regional access, commercial expertise and strategic partnerships provides a strong foundation to develop a meaningful international presence."

Through its international network, Voxen intends to pursue a partnership-led growth strategy, expanding its project portfolio and commercial relationships while maintaining a disciplined approach to development and capital allocation.

Voxen expects to announce further developments regarding its international project portfolio and strategic partnerships in due course.
